Office Action Summary

35 U.S.C. 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 (the claim) is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as the instant plant 'Meivaleir' was described in the following printed publications more than one year prior to the first date of application for Plant Patent for same (August 21, 2001) in the United States (parent application 09/933174):

FR PBR 0163545 (published April 10, 1997), which matured into Grant/Reg. Number 11226 (published December 10, 1999) (denomination accepted on July 10, 1997 and denomination published April 10, 1997); or QZ PBR 980546 (published on June 15, 1998), which matured into Grant/Reg. Number 4990 (published on December 15, 1999) (denomination accepted on October 4, 1999); taken in view of the admission that "Plants of the 'Meivaleir' variety were made available to the public in France during September 1998" and the MEILLAND RICHARDIER catalog excerpt (August 1998) submitted by applicant as Exhibit F in the papers filed March 23, 2003 (in parent application serial number 09/933174), which per applicant's admission "was made available to others in France and identifies the 'Meivaleir' variety".

Art Unit: 1661

A printed publication can serve as a statutory bar under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) if the printed publication, combined with knowledge in the prior art, would have enabled one of ordinary skill in the art to reproduce the claimed plant, and said printed publication was published more than one year prior to the date of application in the United States (In re LeGrice, 301, f.2d 929, 133 USPQ 365 (CCPA 1962)). If one skilled in the art could have reproduced the plant from a publicly available source, then the publication describing the plant would have an enabling disclosure. See Ex Parte Thomson, 24 USPQ-2d, 1618, 1620, (Bd. Pat. App.& Inter. 1992) ("The issue is not whether the [claimed] cultivar Siokora was on public use or sale in the United States but, rather, whether Siokora seeds were available to a skilled artisan anywhere in the world such that he/she could attain them and make/reproduce the Siokora cultivar disclosed in the cited publications."). See also MPEP 2121.03.

It has been determined, and explicitly conceded on the record by applicant, that the above publicly available publications disclose the claimed plant variety and that said claimed variety was placed on public sale more than one year prior to the filing date of the subject application for United States Plant Patent.

As such, the published applications, published grants, and accepted/published denominations, combined with the knowledge in the prior art, would have enabled one of ordinary skill in the art to reproduce the claimed plant. Information regarding the claimed variety, in the form of the publications noted above, was readily available to interested persons of ordinary skill in the art.

A publication relied upon as prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) must be enabling. The text of the relied upon publications standing alone would not have enabled one skilled in the art to practice the claimed invention. When a claim is drawn to a plant, the reference, combined with knowledge in the prior art, must enable one of ordinary skill in the art to reproduce the plant. The admission of prior sale and offer for sale more than one year prior to the filing date of the instant application enables the referenced documents because the disclosed cultivar could have been propagated from publicly available materials, and one skilled in the art would have the knowledge of how to do so, given the notoriety of various methods of asexual propagation in the Genus Rosa, as evidenced by the newly cited Huxley, et al excerpt at page 112. See also, e.g., Thomson, supra. See also Cooper, "Biotechnology and the Law", Section 8.05, pages 8-15 to 8-16 (August 2000), Clark, Boardman, Callaghan ("In essence then, a plant patent applicant cannot lose his rights through public description of the new variety so long as he does not make the stock available for propagation by the public.").

Contrary to applicant's assertions of record as specially set forth in parent application serial number 09/933174, the facts in the instant case are not identical to those presented in LeGrice. The LeGrice decision states "The particular question of law to be here decided is presented on stipulated facts, which, insofar as they relate to the issue, are here quoted from the record..." 133 USPQ at 367. The list of facts that follows does not include the stipulation that the plants sought to be patented were on sale anywhere. Applicant LeGrice never stated that the claimed plants were on sale, nor did he provide copies of the catalogue publications (Brief, Appendix B, pages 10-11). It appears that the Board's conclusion that the plant was on sale and in public use in England had no basis in fact. Naturally, the applicant did not comment on this conclusion because the Board went on to state that it was irrelevant, i.e. not the basis for the rejection.

Art Unit: 1661

The LeGrice Court noted that "...only an 'enabling' publication is effective as a bar to a subsequent patent. We do not agree with the view expressed by the examiner that this necessarily requires that plant publications be 'totally ignored.'" 133 USPQ at 374. The LeGrice Court concluded, "The mere description of the plant is not necessarily an 'enabling' disclosure." 133 USPQ at 378. In the instant application, there is more than a "mere description" of the plant – there is also evidence of public availability of the same more than one year before the instant application was filed. The claimed plant is within the "knowledge of those skilled in the art" by virtue of its public availability. One skilled in the art would thus have known "how to make" the claimed plant upon reading the cited publications, by purchasing a clone of the plant and asexually propagating it by cuttings or any other known method in the art. Thus, the publications provide an enabling disclosure when combined with the knowledge of the skilled artisan.

As stated during the prosecution of the parent application, the examiner agrees that the publication "by itself" would not enable a person skilled in the art to reproduce the claimed plant. However, the availability of the plant whether through sale or other form of public availability would enable the disclosure of the printed publication.

The contention of record in the parent application that foreign commercial availability or public use is not a bar to patentability under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) is noted but is not relevant. The clear wording of 35 U.S.C. 102(b) is "A person shall be entitled to a patent unless - ... (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States...". There is no geographic limitation of the bar under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) to printed publications in this country. There is no requirement that a printed publication that describes the invention be printed or enabled in this country. The second clause of 35 U.S.C. 102(b) barring public sale or use in this country is not relevant because as noted above, the current rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) is based on foreign published documents ("printed publications"), as enabled by the admitted availability of the plants outside the United States more than one year prior to the date of domestic filing.

That the claimed plant was not available in the United States more than one year prior to the date of domestic filing is not relevant to patentability, as there is no geographic component of enablement. For a patent specification to be enabling, there is no requirement that the starting material required to produce the claimed invention must be located in the United States. See, for example, Ex Parte Rinehart 10 USPQ2d 1719, 1720 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), where a specification was found to be enabling even though the required biological material was not deposited, but was obtainable from specified locations in the ocean (specifically, only off the coast of Central and South America, as described in U.S. Patent 4,548,814, col. 1, lines 43-60).

Therefore, a foreign disclosure describing the claimed subject matter, published over a year prior to the filing of the domestic application, is an enabling bar under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) where the plant stock necessary for the publication could have been obtained over a year prior to the domestic filing of an application.

The argument set forth by applicant during the prosecution of the parent application that the Thomson decision is not in accordance to the law for the instant application as the Thomson application was drawn to a utility patent is not persuasive as In re LeGrice, 35 U.S.C. 161, and 36 CFR 1.161 clearly state that the same laws and rules relating to applications for utility patents also are applicable to plant patents except for the one exception set forth in 35 U.S.C. 162.

REQUIREMENT FOR INFORMATION UNDER 37 CFR 1.105

Applicant and the assignee of this application are required under 35 CFR 1.105 to provide the following information that the examiner has determined is reasonably necessary to the examination of this application.

The information is required to determine when the claimed plant variety 'Meivaleir', was publicly available prior to the filing date of the instant application.

In response to this requirement, please provide (to the extent not already provided):

(a) a copy of any plant breeder's rights applications, published proposed denominations, and breeder's rights grants, relating to the claimed plant variety;

(b) a copy of any publications or advertisements relating to sales, offers for sale, or public distributions of the claimed plant variety anywhere in the world if the sale, offer for sale, or public distribution occurred prior to the filing date of this application;

(c) any public information available regarding sales, offers for sale, or public distributions of the claimed plant variety anywhere in the world which occurred prior to the filing date of this application, including the date(s) and location(s).

The Office does not maintain a collection of Breeders' Rights documents and they are not readily obtainable electronically. It is reasonable to expect that Applicant or the assignee can readily obtain the requested documents and information.

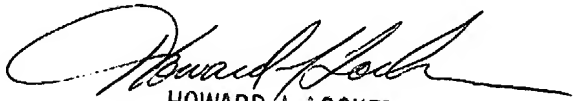

The fee and certification requirements of 37 CFR 1.97 are waived for those documents submitted in response to this requirement. This waiver extends only to those documents within the scope of this requirement under 37 CFR 1.105 that are included in the applicant's first complete communication responding to this requirement.

Art Unit: 1661

Any supplemental replies subsequent to the first communication responding to this requirement and any information disclosures beyond the scope of this requirement under 37 CFR 1.105 are subject to the fee and certification requirements of 37 CFR 1.97.

The applicant is reminded that the reply to this requirement must be made with candor and good faith under 37 CFR 1.56. If an item required by the examiner is unknown to the applicant, a statement that the item is unknown to applicant will be accepted as a complete response to the requirement for that item. Where the applicant does not have and cannot readily obtain an item of required information, a statement that the item cannot readily be obtained will be accepted as a complete response to the requirement for that item.

This requirement is an attachment to the enclosed Office action. A complete response to the enclosed Office action must include a complete response to this requirement. The time period for response to this requirement coincides with the time period for response to the attached Office action, which is three (3) months.
